

No Verdict In Hiss Case

After 6 Hours Jury To Wait Until Today

New York, July 7—(AP)—A federal jury failed to reach a verdict tonight in the trial of Alger Hiss on perjury charges involving the prewar leakage of U. S. government secrets to a Soviet spy ring.

The jury will be locked up for the night.

The 10 men and two women decided at 8:33 p.m. (CST), after more than six hours of deliberation, to retire for the night and try again in the morning to decide the fate of the former State department executive.

Taken Into Custody
They were taken in custody of Deputy U. S. Marshals to the Knickerbocker hotel in Midtown Manhattan.

Federal Judge Samuel H. Kaufman gave the perjury case to the 10 men and two women at 3:20 p.m. (CST). He told the jurors they must acquit Hiss unless they believed the story of his chief accuser, ex-communist Whittaker Chambers, "beyond a reasonable doubt."

Hiss, former high State department official and until recently $20,000-a-year president of the Carnegie endowment for international peace, is accused of lying when he denied to a grand jury that he ever gave secret government papers to Chambers for transmission to a Soviet spy ring.

At 3:53 p.m., Kaufman told attorneys in the courtroom that the jury had requested a woodstock typewriter and certain documentary evidence in the trial. The typewriter is the one which the government says was used to copy the papers allegedly handed out to Chambers.

Went To Dinner
Then at 4:48 p.m., after two hours and 28 minutes' deliberation, the jury went to dinner, escorted by Marshals to a restaurant across Foley Square from the Federal courthouse. There was no indication at that time how near a verdict might be.

The jurors returned to the federal courthouse at 5:10 p.m. and resumed their deliberation.

Pale and tense while the government prosecutor denounced him as a "Judas Iscariot," the gangling, 44-year-old Hiss relaxed as the weary hours of waiting dragged. By 7 p.m. he was sprawled comfortably in a courtroom armchair, often smiling as he chatted with his wife and others.

Asked when he expected the verdict, Hiss replied: "I expect the jury to be out all night. This is a very complicated case."

'Basing Point' System Of Pricing Passed By House

Washington, July 7—(AP)—Amid confusion for which everybody blamed everybody else, the House passed today a bill to legalize the so-called "basing point" system of pricing under certain conditions.

Few members claimed to know exactly what the bill provided. No one challenged the assertion of Rep. Sutton (D-Tenn.) that not more than six members could clearly explain the measure.

Under the basing point system, a manufacturer charges the same delivered prices (including freight) to all his customers in a given area, no matter how far they may be from the shipping point.

The system, as practiced in the cement and rigid conduit industries, has been outlawed by the Supreme Court as violations of the anti-trust and trade laws.

Generally speaking, the House bill, which now goes back to the senate for action on amendments, says shippers can use the basing point system if they don't conspire to violate the anti-monopoly laws.

CZECHS WILL TEACH COMMUNISM IN SCHOOLS

Prague, Czechoslovakia, July 7—(AP)—The communist Czechoslovak government, having all but wiped out Catholic schools, is planning to give the nation's youth more strong doses of Marx and Lenin through textbooks, it was disclosed tonight.

Vojtech Pavlas, deputy minister of education, told the official press agency that whole new batches of textbooks will be introduced, especially for youths from 10 to 19 in secondary schools.

Thundershowers Give Temporary Relief To Heat

By The Associated Press
A July heat wave that has gripped most of the nation from the Rockies to the Atlantic was broken—temporarily—Thursday.

But the weather man said the high temperatures would be back by Saturday.

Thundershowers and a weak cold front teamed up to bring some relief to the eastern two-thirds of the nation, although humidity was still high in some sections.

Thundershowers crackled over wide sections of the Great Lakes area, the Central plains and the Gulf states. In the north and northeastern states temperatures Thursday were normal or slightly below normal. But, the forecast said, these cooler regions can expect a new blast of heat within the next day or two.

Scattered showers were predicted for Pennsylvania but none for New England states, scorched by a 42-day crop killing drought. Some light showers fell in upstate New York Wednesday and New York City had moderate rains.

Early afternoon temperatures Thursday ranged from a delightful 64 at Seattle to 89 at Savannah. In Boston it was 73, in New York City 77, and 82 in Chicago.

Senators Propose World Peace Union Without A-Bomb

Washington, July 7—(AP)—A world-wide alliance for peace with membership open to any nation which agrees to forewarn the atomic bomb as a military weapon, was proposed by a small group of senators tonight.

Senator Mundt (R-SD), one of the sponsors, said Russia would be eligible to join—if it would stop using the veto.

Senator Flanders (R-Vt) called a news conference tomorrow (9 a.m. CST.) to disclose full details of the plan.

In effect, it would expand the proposed 12-nation North Atlantic treaty into a world peace union.

Mundt said that in addition to ruling out the A-bomb, nations seeking to join must—

1. Subscribe to the democratic principles of free nations.
2. Agree to international control of atomic energy.
3. Submit to the authority of an international police force.

ASKS TRAILER CAMP TO LESSEN HOUSING SHORTAGE IN RANTOUL
Rantoul, Ill., July 7—(AP)—Establishment of a trailer camp at the Chamate Air Base to help the housing shortage was announced today by Brig. Gen. Aubrey L. Moore, commander.

He said the air force will provide facilities for 73 trailers to help meet the shortage of housing for military personnel. He said 142 applications already have been received for the 73 spaces.

A special election will be held Nov. 8 to choose a senator to serve out the remainder of Wagner's term from Dec. 1, 1949, to Jan. 3, 1951.

Brannan Says He'll Accept Compromise On Farm Program

Washington, July 7—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan told Senators today he is willing to accept a compromise farm price program that would use government subsidies to assure farmers a high level return on 10 major crops.

The proposed compromise is a farm program unveiled by Brannan this spring, and the Aiken farm price law which is scheduled to go into effect next January 1.

The compromise was advanced by Senator Aiken of Vermont, top-ranking Republican on the senate agricultural committee and author of the delayed action law, which bears his name.

Senator Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture, told Brannan and Aiken into verbal agreement on the compromise after two sessions of an agriculture subcommittee today. Further hearings, however, will be held Monday, with representatives of major farm organizations as witnesses.

Anderson said adoption of the compromise would be "a big step in the direction of the Brannan plan." Brannan himself said the compromise would be better than no action at this session of congress.

Truman Bullish On Economy

Confidence In Tax Boost Lessened

Washington, July 7—(AP)—President Truman, using Wall Street lingo, said today he is bullish on the nation's economic outlook.

A bull is one who bets on good business and a rising stock market.

The president was less confident that Congress would give him his long-sought $4,000,000,000 increase in taxes. In fact he appeared to have given up hope on that.

At a news conference, he was told that Rep. John McCormack (Mass.), House Democratic leader, had expressed the opinion last night that no tax increase would pass this year. John ought to know, the President remarked, because tax bills originate in the House.

Still optimistic
President Truman took his optimistic stand on economic conditions despite Britain's decision to slash her buying in the United States to save dollars.

Mr. Truman said that in his mid-year economic message to congress next Monday he will answer many questions in the public mind.

Asked if he was bullish or bearish about the present picture here, Mr. Truman said he was bullish. He suggested that reporters read up on the stock market happenings in the last few days.

Stock quotations had been advancing steadily for five days, but shortly after the news conference, they started a gentle decline.

The President seemed to have confirmed what his recent callers have been saying, namely, that he will slap hard in his message next week at any idea that the nation is headed toward a serious recession.

Test Taft Labor Bill
As for Taft-Hartley labor law repeal, the President took a somewhat different view than labor leaders. Since the Senate passed the Taft bill retaining most of the original law, these leaders have advocated abandoning the repeal fight for 1949 so it can be made a campaign issue next year.

Mr. Truman, however, said he certainly hoped House Democratic leaders will decide to bring out a bill now for a further test. They are considering this, he said, and it is their decision to make. He added he will continue to fight for Taft-Hartley repeal.

He said once more that the government has no power under existing law to intervene in the Hawaiian Longshoremen's strike.

Commenting on a suggestion by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) that he lead a new crusade for peace after adoption of the North Atlantic pact, Mr. Truman said he has been crusading for peace ever since he took office in April, 1945.

Say 'Jim Crowism' In St. Louis Bad For NEA Meeting
Boston, July 7—(AP)—Schoolteachers protested sharply today that St. Louis is a "Jim Crow" city and that they don't want to meet there in 1950 because some of their delegates might suffer from race discrimination.

The 3,000 delegates of the National Education Association forced through a motion that its board of directors reconsider their choice for the 1950 convention. The board explained that St. Louis was the only choice available and had promised "equal housing" for white and negro teachers.

The attack on St. Louis blew up a storm in a general session which started on a cheerful message from President Truman. The president said he hopes to sign a "satisfactory" bill for federal aid to education in this session of congress.

Needle Is Removed From Baby's Heart
Los Angeles, July 7—(AP)—A five-eighths inch fragment of a broken needle has been removed from the heart of a five-month-old San Diego, Calif., baby, children's hospital surgeons disclosed today.

Since the rare operation Saturday the youngster, Richard Morse, has been doing very well. Doctors said his chances of surviving are about one in three. They said they knew of removal of other foreign objects from the heart wall but never before a needle.

Richard, son of policeman and Mrs. Billie D. Morse of San Diego, had been ailing for two months. Doctors theorized the needle got into his chest accidentally and he rolled over on it, breaking it.

Woman, Insane At Murder Trial In 1948, Is Okay Now

Chicago, July 7—(AP)—Mrs. Claire H. Johnson, 20, who was declared insane on Dec. 27, 1948 at her murder trial for drowning her eight-week-old daughter, was given a clean bill of mental health today.

A jury of seven women and five men in the courtroom of criminal chief justice James J. McDermott ruled that she is sane.

At the request of the state's attorney the murder charge against her was stricken with leave to reinstate.

Mrs. Johnson's husband, Albert, told Judge McDermott he will stand by her. He said she will go to live at Pickering Lake, Wis., with her uncle, Dr. William Groth, a retired physician.

Mrs. Johnson was sent to the Chicago State hospital in 1948. At that time Dr. William H. Haines, director of the Cook county behavior clinic, said she was mentally ill and incapable of cooperating with counsel. She was arrested after her daughter, Linda Claire, was found drowned in the family bathtub.

Dr. Haines testified at today's hearing that Mrs. Johnson is without mental disease at this time.

The bride and groom were Pfc. and Mrs. Lawrence Robertson, also of Lemay. Both suffered severe head injuries. Mrs. Robertson is a sister-in-law of the dead woman, whose husband suffered a compound fracture of the right leg.

Other victims were George Kinder, 18, the driver who suffered head cuts and back injuries, and Dorothy Taylor, 16, who sustained head and internal injuries.

Driver of the truck, Thomas Stookey, 64, New Athens, Ill., was shaken up and bruised slightly.

Stevenson Accuses GOP Senators Of 'Irresponsibility'
Springfield, Ill., July 7—(AP)—Governor Stevenson today accused Illinois republican senators of "legislative irresponsibility" in the six month session which ended last Friday on his orders.

The democratic governor declared he was "surprised to see to what extent party politics influenced legislative decisions."

"I think people are sick and tired of old fashioned political fencing," he asserted.

In a recorded radio report on how his program fared in the assembly, Stevenson said he made a "conscientious effort" to carry out campaign promises but that republicans blocked him on many major proposals.

He added: "I think I saw the summit of legislative irresponsibility and ruinous partisanship when republican senators, after protesting loudly about the budget, killed the revenue bills but voted all day appropriations and a lot more besides, and then refused to cut them back to fit the revenue."

John Wesley Powell was the first man to traverse the Grand Canyon, making the trip by boat in 1893.

Dulles Appointed To Take Wagner's Place In Senate
New York, July 7—(AP)—John Foster Dulles, 61, Republican foreign affairs expert and a leading architect of the nation's postwar international policies, was appointed to the U. S. Senate today by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

He will serve five months until Dec. 1 as successor to the veteran new dealer and Democrat, Robert F. Wagner, 72, who resigned June 23 because of ill health. Wagner was author of the Wagner Labor Relations act.

A special election will be held Nov. 8 to choose a senator to serve out the remainder of Wagner's term from Dec. 1, 1949, to Jan. 3, 1951.

Both Dewey and Dulles himself indicated that the new senator will not run as the Republican nominee in November. However, statements of GOP senators in Washington, who praised the selection highly, indicated Dulles would be under pressure to do so.

Dulles said he will go to Washington at once. There will be 53 Democrats and 43 Republicans in the Senate after he takes the oath. The Senate now is debating the Atlantic pact. Dewey said this was one of three momentous issues in international affairs before Congress which induced him to name Dulles.

The shirt-sleeved governor, announcing his selection in a few words to newsmen at his suite in the Hotel Roosevelt here, said "the great importance of the foreign affairs issues before the Senate at this time made his appointment the greatest contribution I could make."

General Says AEC Broke Bottlenecks On A-Bomb Making

Washington, July 7—(AP)—The nation's A-Bomb arsenal was empty or nearly so when the civilian atomic energy commission took over the multi-billion dollar project from the Army in 1947, Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) said today.

But Brig. Gen. James McCormack, Jr., a top AEC official, reported that since that time production bottlenecks have been broken and output of the might weapon now is on a "stable basis" after a "complete model change."

McCormack's remarks came during McCormack's testimony before the Senate-House atomic energy committee, which the Connecticut Senator heads.

The congressional group is now in its fifth week of hearings into charges by Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) that the AEC and its chairman, David E. Lilienthal, had conducted the vast atomic program with "incredible mismanagement."

Announces Britain May Cut US Buying By $250,000,000
Washington, July 7—(AP)—Paul G. Hoffman said tonight the dollar-short British may cut their planned purchases of American goods by $250,000,000 during the coming year.

The economic cooperation administrator based his estimate in statements by Sir Stafford Cripps in London. The Chancellor of the British Exchequer told the House of Commons yesterday that the United Kingdom must make a drastic reduction in its dollar consuming purchases to avoid bankruptcy.

Hoffman told a news conference that ECA fully recognizes the seriousness of Britain's plight and its impact on the European recovery program. He added:

"Only the British can save Great Britain. Anything we can help Great Britain to do to quickly expand her exports will now have new meaning."

Hoffman said Britain originally had planned to buy about $1,600,000,000 worth of goods in the western hemisphere during the coming 12 months.

Hitchhikers Foiled In Car Theft By Passing Trucker
Gary, Ind., July 7—(AP)—Mrs. Media Steele, 71, of Chicago, was treated at Mercy hospital here today for a scalp wound she said was inflicted by two youthful hitchhikers.

She told police she took the two into her car about three miles west of Michigan City, Ind., as she was driving toward Chicago.

On the outskirts of Gary, she said, the youths ordered her to stop and get out of the car, and when she resisted efforts to put her out one of them hit her on the head with a piece of pipe.

A driver of a passing truck told officers that as he went to assist the woman the youths fled into some underbrush.

Several police squad cars and an airplane were assigned to search for the youths.

Patrolmen Loren O'Brien and Don Smith, in one of the cars, picked up two youths about two miles from the scene of the slugging. The officers said the two gave their names as John Clements, 17, and William Henderson, 21, and admitted they were AWOL from the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

SPY TRIAL POSTPONED
New York, July 7—(AP)—The espionage conspiracy trial here of Judith Coplon and Valentin A. Gubichev, scheduled to begin July 11, was adjourned today until Oct. 15.

The adjournment was ordered by Federal Judge William Zondy.

Pegler Says Unions Loaded With 'Criminals And Reds'
Washington, July 7—(AP)—Columnist Westbrook Pegler said today American unions have become loaded with "despots, criminals and communists" who use violence to beat off attempts at reform.

Testifying before a House Labor subcommittee, Pegler said one man who protested was "murdered."

He identified the victim as William Bruce Ziegler, a member of the International Union of Operating Engineers, formerly headed by Joe Fay and William Malone.

The syndicated New York writer, who says much of his fan mail is addressed "dear sir, you cur," told the committee that rank and file members have "little or no voice" in many unions. But the bosses, he said, handle "millions upon millions of dollars" in union treasuries and spend it "for any purpose they choose."

The sharp-tongued critic of labor's shortcomings spent an hour and a half in the witness chair, alternately mild and glittering of eye as he recited wrongs he said were suffered by working men and women. His testimony bristled with epithets as "thief," "swindler," "czar" and "Hitlerian"—all referring to union leaders.

U.S. Steps Into Steel Talks

Will Attempt To Avert Big Steel Strike

Washington, July 7—(AP)—Government conciliators went into action today on the threat of a big steel strike.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO Steelworkers Union and of the CIO itself, and John A. Stephens, vice president of the U. S. Steel Corp., were summoned to a conference here Monday.

Cyrus S. Ching, director of the federal mediation and conciliation service, asked them to come as a result of a break-down in bargaining negotiations between the union and the company.

The development underscored the government's concern over the possibility of a steel strike, which would have immediate repercussions on such important elements of the nation's economy as defense work and automobile manufacturing.

Steel negotiations hit a snag yesterday when "Big Steel's" President Benjamin F. Fairless rejected the steel workers' demand for a fourth-round wage increase. Earlier, the company had stiff-armed the union's demand for pensions for its 800,000 members.

Murray reacted swiftly. He called a meeting of his policy committee at Pittsburgh for next Tuesday. The committee has power to call a strike. Stepping into the middle of the tense situation today, Ching telegraphed Murray and Stephens:

Report Rimless Glasses May Cause A Type Of Cancer
Chicago, July 7—(AP)—Four Philadelphia doctors reported today that cancer may be caused by rimless spectacles that focus light on the face.

Twelve cases involving skin conditions near the eyes were studied by Drs. Edward P. Corson, George M. Knoll, Herbert A. Luscombe, and Henry B. Decker of the department of dermatology at Jefferson Medical College.

Writing in the current issue of archives of dermatology and syphilology, published by the American Medical association, they said each case was believed to have been caused by the heat or chemical rays conducted by spectacle lenses.

In nine of the 12 patients the condition was diagnosed as cancer, in another as keratoses, premalignant growths caused by radiation. The other two were believed to have chronic actinic dermatitis, a skin disturbance caused by light rays.

Berlin Supplies Back To Normal
Berlin, July 7—(AP)—Berlin's supply lines were restored to normal today for the first time in 14 months of blockade and labor strife, allied authorities disclosed.

The railway system has overcome the effects of the five-week west Berlin strike which nullified the lifting of the Soviet blockade.

The system has been pumping a daily average of 13,000 tons of supplies into the western sectors ever since last weekend.

Trucks delivered a total of 27,690 tons from west Germany to west Berlin last week and canal barges brought another 23,369 tons.

The allied airlift is averaging 8,900 tons daily.

Negro Red Says He Was Discriminated Against At School
New York, July 7—(AP)—A New York Negro city councilman, testifying as a defendant in the communist conspiracy trial, said today he experienced racial discrimination at Amherst College and Harvard University.

The witness, Benjamin J. Davis, Jr., did not give details of the alleged incidents.

Davis took the stand as the third communist leader to testify in the 25-week trial. He followed Gilbert Green of Chicago, Illinois chairman of the party, on the witness stand. Green testified more than three weeks. He was questioned on re-direct and re-cross examination today.

Green said under questioning of his own attorney that several pamphlets introduced by the government were not used by the party after 1938.

The prosecution had contended that these publications advocated violent overthrow of the U. S. government. The 11 defendants are charged with "conspiracy to teach such a course. The indictment covers the period 1945-48.

The trial was adjourned until tomorrow.

ALABAMA GIVES KLAN A KICK;
LET'S HOPE SOUTH FOLLOWS SUIT

Gov. James E. Folsom and his Alabama legislature deserve to be commended for their speedy, forthright response to the ugly challenge of white-robed terror in their state.

Newly placed on Alabama's statute books is a law that bans the wearing of masks, hoods or robes. The penalty for violation is a $500 fine or one year in jail.

Alabama thus becomes the first state in the South to strike a real blow at the resurging Ku Klux Klan, which most southern authorities blame for the rising tide of violence in the region.

There is some talk that Alabama now may go a step farther and revoke the Klan's state charter, thus making it an outlaw organization. All decent American citizens must hope this goal is also achieved.

More than that, they must wish that a whole procession of states will follow Alabama's lead. Nothing would be more gratifying than to see the South rid itself of these night-riding hoodlums without interference from outside.

It seems incredible that we should have to be decrying such primitive violence in a 1949 America. In fact, were we not so well aware of the tragic results of this practice, we probably would be tempted to laugh heartily at the absurdly silly business of growing men running around in flapping white garments.

But, stripped of their bedsheets, these latter-day terrorists can be seen for what they are: Nazi-style bully boys with an even bigger streak of cowardice, if that is possible. Alabama has had the fundamental good sense to unfrock these spineless bullies permanently.

There is evidence, too, that it is earnestly determined to find among them those who were responsible for the recent floggings and other outrages in the Birmingham area. A county grand jury already has returned a dozen or more indictments.

These various state and local moves to stamp out hooded violence have not kept Congress from launching its own inquiry into the outbreaks. A House Judiciary subcommittee is looking into them.

No harm can come from a further airing of the facts so that all Americans can understand the menace for what it is. But Congress ought to do nothing to discourage the excellent beginning Alabama has made toward crushing this particular lawlessness.

It should allow state authorities a chance to follow through. And permit a little time for us to see whether Alabama's behavior may not prove contagious to its neighbors.

Prospective honeymooners can still dream of the falls as pictured on colored postcards. But it isn't clear yet where our ingenious power engineers are going to hide their giant turbines.

Poison Ivy Can Be Contracted Easily
In Winter, Summer

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

There is more trouble with poison ivy during the summer than at other times of the year only because more people are out-of-doors in warm weather. The stalk, however, is dangerous in winter also and it cannot be recognized so easily when the leaves are off.

Everyone should learn to recognize this plant and its typical three-pointed leaf. Even those who seem to avoid difficulty easily should not be careless as the time may come when they themselves fall victims. Doctors often see people who are astonished at having poison ivy because "they never got it before."

The poison ivy plant contains an oil which is extremely irritating to the skin. This oil, even in small quantities, can cause blistering. It can be carried by the fingers from one part of the body to another. Hence rubbing or scratching of the itching skin should be avoided.

If there is any suspicion of having come in contact with poison ivy one should wash the area with soap and water two or three times, rinsing carefully after each washing.

There are several lotions and ointments which are useful in combating ivy poisoning, but when a large area is involved, a doctor's advice should be obtained. For small skin irritations crystals of potassium permanganate can be dissolved in water and applied to the skin. This has the disadvantage of staining the skin dark brown. Calamine lotion is also used a great deal.

Some doctors believe that an extract of poison ivy which can be given by injection is helpful in prevention. There is some difference of opinion about this, however, and while it is useful for some, it does not seem to help others.

Note: Dr. Jordan is unable to answer individual questions from readers. However, each day he will answer one of the most frequently asked questions in his column.

THE DOCTOR ANSWERS

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

Question: My husband formerly stuttered frequently, now only occasionally. Can this stuttering be inherited by my baby which is expected shortly?

Answer: Stuttering is probably not inherited. Children, however, are great imitators and copying a loved parent in speech as well as in other respects for a while would not be surprising.

New York—(P)—Rainy day round-up:

An unconscious hero of our time is Ray Emmert of Zanesville, Ohio. This 40-year-old-ex-soldier soldier's personal unemployment problem by having himself buried alive in a coffin six feet underground.

For weeks thousands of curious people thronged to his temporary grave and dropped coins into a contribution box for the privilege of staring down a ten-inch observation tunnel at Emmert's placid countenance.

After 45 days Emmert emerged, collected his financial tribute, and claimed a new "buried alive" record. His chief complaint was that he got "tired of looking at nothing but faces."

The whole experience typifies the desire of twentieth century man to escape from oppressive reality. And it may set a pattern for the man of the future.

There is no reason why every man shouldn't, from time to time, follow Emmert's example. All he needs to "get away from it all" is a shovel.

Dr. Lillian Gist
Oldest Co-Ed, Dies;
Had Studied Here

Dr. Lillian Jeannett Hurlburt Gist, widely-known as the "oldest co-ed in the world," having received her master's degree at the age of 80, died July 1 at her home in Tampa, Fla. She was 94.

DR. LILLIAN GIST

Dr. Gist was graduated from the Illinois Female college, now MacMurray college, in 1875, with a degree of mistress of liberal arts. She also studied at Cornell college in Iowa, where she received a bachelor of art degree in 1908.

Before her 80th birthday, she entered Claremont college in California. She studied philosophy and Roman history and literature and produced a 28,000-word thesis on "Lucretius, the Poet of Nature." She was graduated with an A.M. degree in 1935 and was named the outstanding student of her class.

In 1935, MacMurray college conferred on her an honorary degree of doctor of letters. In that same year, she was the speaker at the annual alumni luncheon.

Dr. Gist was born in Ashtabula, Ohio, on Nov. 24, 1854, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Russell Hurlburt. Her father was a Methodist minister and a physician. She was married to the Rev. Dr. William W. Gist, who had served with the Ohio infantry in the Civil War and who for many years on the faculty of Iowa State Teachers college.

cheap pine coffin—and a friend to cover him up.

The milk man could lower him a fresh bottle of milk every morning, and the delivery boy from the delicatessen could drop him a ham and a hard-boiled egg once or twice a day. It would be a wonderful way to spend a restful vacation—right in your own back yard.

And you wouldn't have to go through that annual argument with your wife over whether to go to the mountains or the seashore.

What could be better? No worries, no sunburn, no vexing mosquitoes, no hotel bills, no sore muscles. This relaxing fall of being buried alive might well sweep the country except for one thing:

Every man has an uneasy feeling that, once he was six feet underground, his relatives and friends might decide he wasn't worth the trouble of digging up.

A friend of mine was worried because his child was slow to learn to talk. All the neighbors' small fry of the same age were gabbling infantile gobbledegook, but his boy remained stubbornly silent. Wouldn't utter a word.

Then, one morning at breakfast, the child looked up and said gravely: "This is now."

The papa is convinced now he's got a genius.

The late Don Marquis, one of the best loved writers of his time, once did a stint in Hollywood. But the film colony's method of work made him nervous—six weeks to do a script, then a month of idleness while his agent turned up another job.

Marquis fled back to New York. Later a friend, seeking his help on a script, called and said: "You want to make some money?" "How much will it cost me?" asked Marquis cautiously.

The slickest thing on wheels!

Miles of fun at only pennies of cost.

Seekers Of Indian
Arrow Heads Find
Them In Jersey

Jerseyville—Indian relic hunters of Jerseyville report finding numerous flint arrows in the area known as Bethany northwest of this city. Several decades ago collectors used to visit the same locality each spring and fall after the land had been turned by the plow.

The late J. M. Borer of that district had a large collection, and most of his specimens were obtained in the Bethany locality. He often expressed the belief that a big battle had been fought in the area between two tribes.

Other collectors believe that the Bethany locality was at one time the home for some years of a tribe of the Illinois Indians, for in addition to the arrow heads, numerous hide scrapers and Indian axes have been found by residents in the district.

Until this season the Bethany locality has been overlooked for a number of years by relic hunters. This season, however, findings of arrow heads have stimulated the old time urge to hunt for Indian relics. A perfect Indian ax will often bring a very good price when consigned to certain markets.

GUEST AT ROODHOUSE

Roodhouse—Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hutches and Ralph Pruitt of Moline, and Mr. and Mrs. William Hart and son of Springfield were weekend guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cardwell.

In Methodist Caravan

Concord—Caravan week, with six days of worship, study and recreation under joint sponsorship of the Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Concord church and visiting Methodist Caravan Team, will be held July 15-23 at the Concord Methodist church.

The Methodist Youth Caravan program is a project of Methodist youth, under the direction of the board of education of the Methodist church. Since its beginning in 1938, the program has trained and sent caravans into nearly all parts of the United States and into Cuba, Hawaii, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland, Belgium, Norway, Sweden, and North Africa. In ten years 3,323 young people and adults comprising 699 caravan teams have served.

A typical caravan is composed of two young men, two young women, and one adult counselor. Youth members are under 24 years of age, have completed at least two years of college, or have equivalent experience. Adult members are experienced in the direction of Christian youth work.

Before entering the field as a member of a caravan team, every caravaner spends ten days of intensive training at one of five caravan training centers. This climaxes a period of several months study and preparation at home. At these centers caravaners are given basic training in all phases of the Methodist Youth Fellowship program and specific training in two or more phases. They are trained to work with all age groups within the MYF.

On completion of their training, caravaners spend a period of seven weeks working in local Methodist churches, staying one week with each church. Their aim is to give direction and leadership to the development of a youth program in each church which fulfills the ideals and purposes of the MYF. Caravaners assist local youth in planning programs of evangelism, world friendship, and community service. They give suggestions for worship services, lead informal study groups, direct recreation, help initiation work projects, and interpret the youth program of the church to civic leaders.

The counselor with the caravan which is to visit Concord is Miss Viletta Hillery of Macomb, a graduate of Western State college and a teacher in the Macomb public school. Miss Hillery, who also attended Garrett Theological seminary, has been a counselor for two previous years, one summer with Home Missions Council of North America in Mexican immigration work and one summer in a Church of Brethren work camp.

Other members of the caravan are Ann Darwin of Baton Rouge, La., a junior at Louisiana State university; Jean Coleman of Adams, Neb., a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan university; Beverly Nessel of Rome, N. Y., a sophomore at Keuka college; Keuka Park, N. Y.; and William Au of Wahiawa, Oahu, Hawaii, a junior at Boston University college of liberal arts.

In the photograph above are Mr. Au and Miss Coleman, standing; Miss Darwin, Miss Hillery and Miss Nessel, seated.

Liberalize Pension Laws For Disabled Vets Of Both Wars

Illinois veterans of World War I or II who are unable to follow a gainful occupation because of disability may be entitled to a pension even though the disability is not a result of military service.

The Illinois Veterans Commission announced that pension laws for non-service connected disabilities have been liberalized, thus affording older veterans an opportunity to qualify for total disability despite the fact that the specific degree of disability may not be total. Many veterans who have been denied total disability in the past are eligible to apply again.

Single veterans whose income annually is $1,000 or more, or veterans with dependents whose income is over $2,500, cannot qualify.

Veterans whose employment is limited because of a disability should contact the nearest office of the Illinois Veterans Commission immediately. Service officers are familiar with the requirements to be met and are ready to assist veterans in making proper application.

The Commission office serving Morgan county is located at 6-7 Morrison Block in Jacksonville.

Detasseling Corn Provides Summer Jobs For Many

Approximately 1,200 persons will be employed detasseling corn on the 6,000 acres of corn in Greene, Scott and Macoupin counties owned by the Columbian Seed Corn company of Eldred. The work began in the three counties the last of the week and to date there are between eight and nine hundred persons employed. The workers who detassel on the machines work in shifts, the first shift beginning at 4 a.m. and continuing until 12 noon, when the next shift takes over and works until 8 p.m. The workers are from all age groups with the greater part of them being over 16 years of age. For the first time in some years, there are more men workers than there are women.

In addition to the workers here, another group is being employed on the Columbian Seed Corn Company acreage in southern Illinois and in Tennessee. The work is expected to be of a month's duration.

WHEAT PRICES GO HIGHER FOR THIRD STRAIGHT DAY

Chicago, July 7.—(P)—Wheat rolled on upward to new peaks for the past five months and longer on the Board of Trade today. It was the third straight day of sharp advances in active dealings.

The market had to take a lot of selling orders, but mill buying, short covering by local traders and purchases from commission houses were enough to take care of all the selling. Gains, however, did not match those of yesterday.

Receipts were: wheat 701 cars; corn 56; oats 24; rye 2; barley 4; soybeans 11.

Wheat closed 1-11 higher, July $2.02-1-2; corn was 1-11 lower, July $1.37-1-4; oats were 1-11 higher, July 63-1; rye was 1-21 higher, July 1-40-1; soybeans were 4 to 9 lower, July $2.46-1-2, and hard was 7 to 25 cents a hundred pounds lower, July $10.32.

Alleged 'Snubbing' Of Heintzelman Gets All-Star Game To Boil

Yankees And Phils Are Teams To Beat Under The Lights

New York, July 7.—(P)—The American League leading New York Yankees and the third place Philadelphia Phils of the National are the night game champions of the majors.

One of the reasons why the Yankees hold a four-game bulge over the Philadelphia Athletics is their after-dark record of 11-4, a cool .733 percentage. Their daylight average is about 100 points less than that figure.

The Phils, a 500 club under the sun, holds a winning edge of .636 based on 14 victories and eight defeats under the lights.

Runner-ups to the Yankees and Phils are last year's world series participants, the Cleveland Indians (15-9) and the Boston Braves (15-12). The Athletics (14-11) and Washington (15-14) are the only other big league clubs over the 500 mark at night. The National League leading Brooklyn Dodgers barely managed to break even in 20 owl contests.

The poorest night game clubs are the St. Louis Browns (9-17) and the Pittsburgh Pirates (10-15). The Bucs dropped eight straight night games during one stretch.

Pittsburg Shuts Out Cards In 2-0 Contest

Pittsburgh, July 7.—(P)—Ernie Bonham and Rookie Dino Restelli ganged up on the St. Louis Cardinals today to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-0 victory, their eighth win in nine games.

Bonham held the Cards to six hits and hurled the third shutout of the season for the Bucs. It was his fifth victory against two defeats.

Bonham never was in serious trouble. In only one-inning did the Cards garner as many as two hits.

Griffith Fires Haefner For Loafing In Game

Washington, July 7.—(P)—Owner Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators gave Pitcher Mickey Haefner his walking papers tonight after the veteran left hander was knocked out of the box in the first inning against the Boston Red Sox.

In the first frame, Haefner walked five and allowed one hit for five runs. The Red Sox went on to win, 8-3, in a game called at the end of six innings to permit Boston to catch a train.

Griffith told reporters: "Mickey Haefner has pitched his last game for the Washington baseball club. He will either be sold, traded or released outright. I am asking waivers on him tonight."

When questioned in the clubhouse Haefner apparently took his dismissal in stride. "This isn't the first time a pitcher ever made a fielding mistake, is it?" he asked.

"If Mr. Griffith doesn't want me I'm not going to squawk."

"I don't want to be disrespectful to Mr. Griffith but nobody can ever say I dogged it."

"(Dogged) is athletic jargon for loafing."

Haefner added, "I never dogged it in my life."

Although the 36-year-old left hander would not say, he indicated that he felt sure he would be able to get another job somewhere in the majors.

His best performance this year was a one-hitter against Cleveland when he won 1-0. So far he has beaten St. Louis twice, Cleveland twice, and Boston, and lost to Philadelphia three times, and St. Louis.

He was listed as the losing pitcher tonight. Including his short performance this evening, he has hurled 91 2/3 innings, allowed 86 hits, walking 53, striking out 23, and allowing 44 earned runs. He has started twelve times and finished four games.

Griffith, 79, said he would not stand for "an indifferent performance" such as he thought Haefner's was tonight.

Griffith specifically mentioned Haefner's showing when he fielded Boston pitcher Chuck Stobbs' bunt in the first inning.

Stobbs tapped the ball between the mound and first. Haefner picked the ball up and then dropped it.

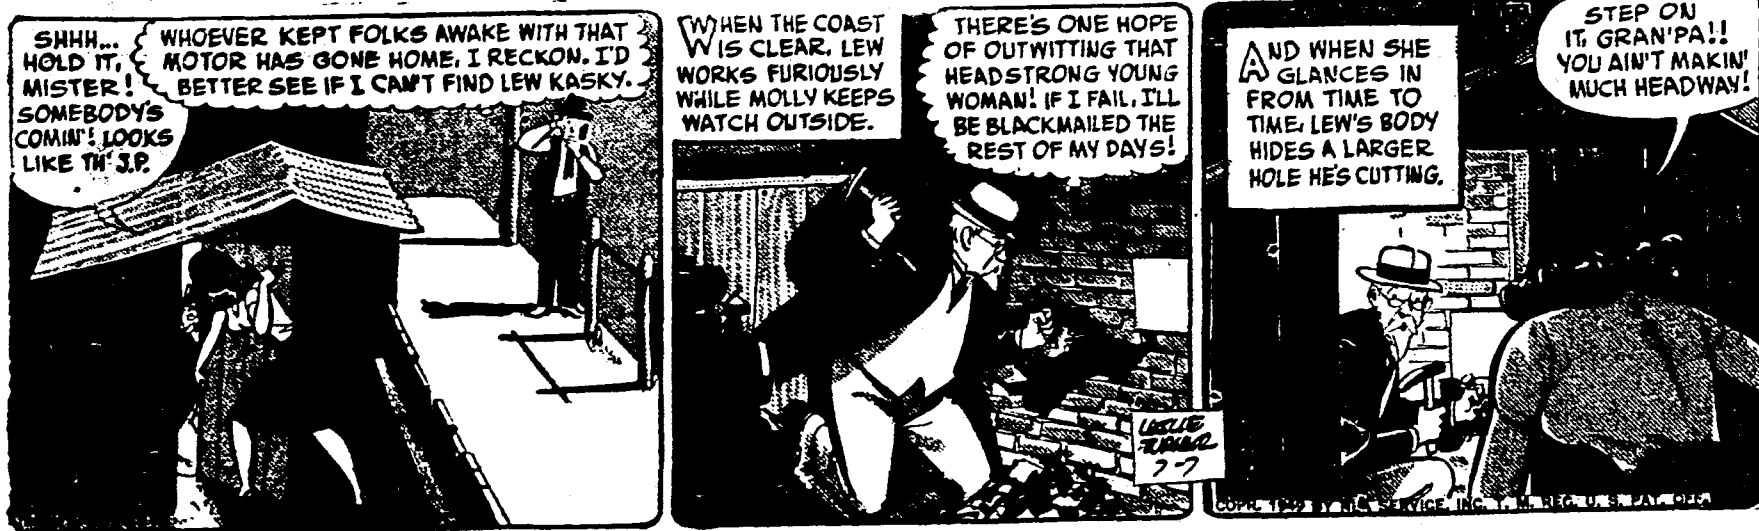

He was so slow in picking it up the second time that Stobbs, normally a slow man, beat it out.

"Manager Joe Kuhel has orders to leave Haefner at home when the team goes to New York tomorrow," Griffith continued. "If he were being retained by the Washington club I would fine and suspend him for his lack of interest in his job tonight. But he will never be seen again in a Washington uniform."

So far this year Haefner, who comes from New Athens, Ill., has won five and lost five, including tonight's game. He has been in the majors six years and compiled a record of 65 wins against 73 losses.

CLIPPED ANGEL

By Clive Grierson Cornish

Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Mike McTag, a mining engineer, is investigating the drop in production from the Dark Angel, inherited by Cory Parnell from her father. Mike suspects she is there, but they have covered their trail by using a nearby mine as a dummy through which the stolen ore is sold. Mike is just about to give up before he discovers that the Argus is being used to transport the stolen ore away to the Argus workings. When Mike tells his discovery to Cory, she says she can't go to see what he's found because she is afraid—she's got claustrophobia—a fear of closed-in places.

XVI

"It's crazy," I repeated. "The idea of not being able to go into your own mine because you've got claustrophobia!"

Cory Parnell flushed scarlet. "All right, Mike, I'm a coward. I can't help it. I've tried and tried, but every time I get a few feet past the portal—"

I reached for her hand but she snatched it away. "Cory, you've got me wrong. Claustrophobia's nothing to be ashamed of. Everybody's got something the matter with them. Take me—I'm scared to death of horses."

She brightened up visibly. "Really, Mike?"

I felt better. You hate to see somebody with guts licked by a thing they can't fight.

"What I meant," I said, "was that if people around here know you never go into the mine, how do you expect to keep them on their toes?"

"Because I can trust them," I groaned. "Cory, don't give me that again. Listen, and I'll tell you what I've been doing."

I gave her the story, leaving out the bit where I nearly got conked off. She heard me out and when she'd thought it over for a few minutes, she came out with something absolutely typical: "Mike, I wish you knew who it was."

Without thinking, I said, "We could find out easily enough. All we'd have to do is sit on the roof of that shed tonight and watch the parade."

"Then let's do it!"

Right then is when I should have put my foot down. I should have pointed out that it was risky, unnecessary, and that things had reached the stage where the law should be called in, preferably in the shape of several smart detectives.

I should have told her not to be melodramatic, and generally acted my age.

Instead of that I toyed with a cozy picture of Cory and me sitting close together in the dark for several hours, sharing an adventure, and perhaps the two of us planning our life together. I'll admit I behaved like a romantic idiot—but I liked it.

"Okay," I said, "and any time you'd like a few dozen dragons slain, just say the word."

LATE that afternoon I said good-by to Uncle Jake and Archie Trask, and told them how sorry I was I hadn't been able to find any ore for them.

I said the same thing to everybody I ran into, and told them, also, that Cory was driving me into Seattle right after dinner. I wanted it known to everyone that Mr. McTag had taken the hint and was pulling up stakes.

We set out about eight o'clock and when we'd gone about a mile toward Drisco, Cory pulled into a gravel pit where the car was out of sight from the road.

She knew a trail that led past the far edge of the townsite and we stumbled along in the dark for an hour until we finally came out on the road, just below the shed which the Highway Department had apparently forgotten it owned.

I scouted the ground and noticed both trucks were in the shed, but there were no signs or sounds of activity. I gave Cory a boost up onto the roof.

It was flat and once it had been tarred and graveled, but now it was covered with moss. A foot high parapet was along the front edge and we settled down behind it like a couple of fans in the bleachers.

A LITTLE before midnight the roof started vibrating and I knew ore cars were in the tunnel. We heard the rattle of ore cascading into the trucks and then it stopped and a moment later the shed doors below us swung open.

Somebody stepped out and stood listening for fully half a minute.

"All clear," he said, and it was the voice of Uncle Jake.

Cory grabbed me so hard I nearly yelled.

A starter whirled and a loaded six-wheeler pulled out. It traveled with dimmed headlights and turned along the road in the direction of Argus Mines.

"Who's driving it?" Cory whispered.

I shook my head. The second truck pulled away and somebody came out of the shed and stood with Uncle Jake.

"You filled that last one a bit too full, Jake!" it was Archie Trask—"the tarp didn't quite cover the load."

"It doesn't matter," Uncle Jake said, "that snoop artist has gone home."

"Yeah, but if any of the stuff spilled on the road it might start someone wondering."

Fishermen Caught By Rain

Flamingo, Fla.—(P)—Ever hear of a fisherman being cut off by a cloud? It happens this way:

This little town at the southern tip of Florida (and of the United States) is reached by highway the last 15 miles of which is a marl road.

Marl is a kind of clay powdery when dry but as slick as a greased pole when wet. Automobiles just sit in one spot and spin and spin their wheels on the wet marl road. Flamingo is a popular fishing spot. Dozens of people drive here from Miami to fish. But all keep a weary eye on the sky. Any kind of a black cloud sends them fleeing over the marl road toward the paved highway 15 miles away.

Those who get a slow start sometimes are too late. Rain hits the marl road. They remain in Flamingo until the road dries again—sometimes as much as three days. That's embarrassing for a fisherman who told his wife to expect him home for supper.

Romans Told Not To Blow Own Horns

Rome—(P)—One of Rome's post-Mussolini freedoms is slowly being snuffed out. That is the freedom to blow your automobile horn.

Acoustic signaling, as it is called in Italian road manuals, was strictly taboo in Rome during the Fascist Regime. With the fall of Rome, June 4, 1944, Italians went on a tremendous riot. The hills rocked—and continued to rock for five years—to the unrestrained sound of automobile horns.

Editorials finally began appearing in the Rome press calling for a return to the once-oppressive days of silence. And just the other day, traffic signals were erected near the Piazza Venezia. They show horns with lines drawn through them—meaning don't blow them around here.

Strikes are not a modern idea. The first known strike in history was the strike of secession of the plebeians against the patricians in ancient Rome, about 494 B. C.

Heat, Humidity May Prove Fatal To 'Pierre'

The giant St. Bernard owned by Major Searles, and tipping the scales at 234 pounds, almost came to journey's end during this hot spell. In fact, the massive dog, who was meant to live in the Monastery Hills of Switzerland, became the most miserable creature in Jacksonville during the last two weeks.

In extreme hot weather, that breed of dog is susceptible to heart stroke and it was feared that this might happen to "Pierre." To make matters worse, he has been suffering from a sprained foot, which makes it extremely difficult for him to move around.

The humidity affects him so that it was necessary to place ice packs on his huge neck and to keep him under a fan night and day. His diet was cut to a minimum in an effort to save his life, but it is doubtful if he will survive the heat and humidity if it continues for a few days more, according to Major Searles.

THREE ROOM APARTMENT CARVED FROM TREE

Keith Straughan, a resident of Humboldt county, Calif., is one man who has definitely solved the housing shortage. All one has to do, according to Mr. Straughan, is to cut down a tree of the Sequoia Semipervirens species, take out a pocket knife and begin carving away. With patience, industry, and a sharp knife a house can be fashioned therefrom.

There are some drawbacks. For instance, the tree is rather large, and none have been reported in Morgan county. The one used by Straughan was 264 feet high and 14 feet wide at the base. He estimated that it weighed over 200 tons. It is 1900 years old.

Mr. Straughan, and his son-in-law, William Guidici, purchased a section of the tree from the Hammond lumbering firm. Working with drills, bores, and adzes (no pocket knife was really mentioned) they removed 10,000 board feet from the interior.

The pair used wood from the tree to make all furniture and this consists of enough to furnish the three room apartment carved inside the house. The house is equipped with such modern facilities as an electric ice box and fluorescent lighting.

The tree, felled less than a year ago, grew in the Elk River tract of the redwood empire in California. Mr. Straughan said he built the house to show the people of the United States that trees do grow as large as the California Chamber of Commerce claims.

Straughan and his family, his mother, wife, son, two daughters, and his son-in-law set forth from California last November to exhibit the tree. He will display his house and an exhibit of products made from the redwood and the unique burl which grows on the great trees. He will lecture on the redwoods and the scenic attractions of the redwood empire before schools and public bodies in all cities he visits. He also shows a color-sound motion picture, "Redwood Empire Travel Thrills."

This unusual house will be parked on the east side of the square all day Friday. Mr. Straughan will tell any potential tree dwellers how to carve out a future for himself.

Virginia Jay Cees To Present Music Festival July 19

Virginia—Final plans for a Music Festival July 19 at 8 p.m. were made at the regular meeting of the Virginia Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening in Legion hall. James Frisch, president, presided.

John Schaeffer, chairman of the festival committee, reported on talent secured to date for the event. Quartets from Jacksonville, Beards-Buckeros, accordion selections and a trio of young ladies have already been engaged.

Proceeds of the show will go towards a prospective lighted ball field, to be used in connection with the community playground.

Secretary Dwight Clark presented a letter from Norbert J. Schindler of Jacksonville concerning the trip to St. Louis to a ball game July 27 by the Jacksonville JayCees.

Registration of children between the ages of 10 and 16 is to be made at the Virginia playground with Kenny Devlin. Persons willing to furnish cars are urged to get in touch with Richard Juniper.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, July 26, at 8 p.m.

Carrollton Woman Critically Hurt In Leap From Car

Carrollton—Mrs. Betty Walters Jones was critically injured about 1 o'clock Thursday morning when, according to Greene county authorities, she leaped from a car being driven by Louis Behnken.

The injured woman, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walters of Carrollton, is at Boyd Memorial hospital, suffering from a skull fracture.

She had not regained consciousness late Thursday evening.

Others in the car at the time were Rowena Morrison of Greenfield and William White of Carrollton.

According to reports, Behnken ran a stop sign on Route 67 and was being pursued by State Patrolman Francis Neubauer. After Mrs. Jones leaped from the car about a block north of the Carrollton public square, Behnken slowed down, allowing Miss Morrison to get out of the car. She was uninjured.

Behnken is foreman with the Bridges Construction company of St. Louis, which is blacktopping the highway near Carrollton. He is being held for investigation.

Police Find Boy, Nine, Locked In Filthy Bedroom

Chicago, July 7 —(AP)—A nine-year-old boy, formerly a patient in a mental institution, was found today locked in a filthy bedroom in his south side home.

Police identified him as Robert Harry Barnum of 5619 South Campbell avenue. His father, George M. Barnum, 35, unemployed, was held by police without charge.

Policeman Frank Hoesel said the youth was nude when found. He was given trousers and shoes and taken to a police station.

Hoesel said the lad, instead of sitting on a chair, squatted in a corner. When police gave him an ice cream cone, he only smelled it and apparently not knowing what to do with it. He did not speak.

Later he was taken to the juvenile home.

Hoesel said the boy had been treated in a mental institution at Lincoln, Ill., but was taken from there in 1944.

Tavern Employee Robbed Of $2,500 In Broad Daylight

Moline, Ill., July 7 —(AP)—Mrs. Annabelle Ellstrom, 41, an employee of Dave's tavern, was knocked down in an alley and robbed of $2,500 here this afternoon.

Mrs. Ellstrom told police she had just left the First National bank with the cash. She said when she reached the alley she saw a negro standing there. When a car drove up behind her, Mrs. Ellstrom added, the man knocked her down on her back, grabbed the bag of money and jumped into the automobile which continued down the alley.

Al Welsh, a barber passing through the alley, noted the license number and came to Mrs. Ellstrom's aid.

Police said the license number turned in to them was issued to Harry Giles, operator of the Stag tavern. They said a check of the spot where Giles told them he had parked his car showed it to be missing.

Home Bureau Speaker Tells Why Constitution Should Be Rewritten

Four reasons for revising the state constitution were listed by Mrs. Florence Bohrer of Bloomington in a forceful address given Thursday morning at the second session of the 12th annual citizenship conference, sponsored by the Illinois Home Bureau Federation and the Home Economics Extension Service of the University of Illinois.

In her address, the former member of the state assembly and past president of the Illinois League of Women Voters asserted that one of the most vital problems confronting the citizens of Illinois is that of bringing the "outmoded" constitution of 1870 up to date.

The reasons she gave for the urgency of revising the constitution hinged on four primary needs: reapportionment; new taxing system; shorter ballots; and new methods of making amendments.

Conditions in 1870 She gave a word picture of existing conditions in 1870, when the present constitution was drawn up. Then in the horse and buggy days Illinois had a population of one and a half million. A constitution designed to fulfill the needs of the people of that day can hardly be considered adequate nearly 80 years later, the speaker contended.

An equal representation must be attained, she continued. The downstate area now hold a majority in both houses and as a result every measure introduced meets with friction between the downstate and metropolitan legislators.

She cited as ideal the system in effect in 14 other states, in which there are two senators from each district and the number of representatives is based on population.

Talks on Relationships Another highlight of the Thursday morning session, which was presided over by Mary Louise Chase, assistant state leader in the extension service, was an address by Mrs. Blanche Rafferty of Canton. Her topic was "Relationships May Help or Hinder Our Achievements."
